RED DEER

Alberta Women's Institute

The April meeting of the Red Deer branch of the Alberta Women's Institute was held in the lecture room of the Methodist Church on Saturday last at three o'clock. There were thirty-one ladies present.

Mr. Whitehouse was present (representing the Board of Trade), to discuss the advisability of starting a market in town. A committee was appointed to meet the Board of Trade at their next meeting. After several other items of business were transacted, Mrs. Hacking gave a synopsis of Jane Addams' book "Twenty Years at Hull House," which was listened to with a great deal of interest. Jane Addams is a highly educated woman, who is giving her life and money for the uplifting and helping of as many people as she possibly can. Her definition of culture is the ability not to segregate one's self, but to come into contact with as many people as possible. Miss Addams was some time ago voted the most useful person in the United States. Mrs. Hacking gave a hearty vote of thanks for the meeting for her able and inspiring address. The meeting closed in the usual manner.

St. George's Day Celebration

The Sons of England concert, to be given on St. George's Day, Thursday, April 23rd, in the Parish Hall, promises to be one of the best local concerts ever staged. Some of the Red Deer's talented singers have promised their assistance, and they are the equal of the best in the province, a fact we are proud of here, and this alone guarantees success. Many requests have been made to the committee that a dance follow the concert, and to meet these requests it has been decided to put on an informal dance, giving those desirous of a couple of hours' enjoyment in that line the chance without having to go to any trouble or expense, as the charge will only be 25c per head to pay for the hall. Refreshments are being provided by the members, which will be free, and on the tables during the whole of the dance. Card tables are also being provided, so that everyone should be enabled to spend the evening of St. George's Day in a very enjoyable manner.

PUBLIC WORKS FOR RED DEER DISTRICT

This was the heading of an article on the front page of the Advocate last week, in which it states that Mr. Welliver interviewed the Minister of Public Works last week with regard to public works, and stated that as a result of his representations certain things were promised. We are pleased to have Mr. Welliver use his influence to assist in getting public improvements for the city and district—we are willing to give him all the credit due for his assistance, yet we are not disposed to give him all the credit, as the Advocate seems to do. 1. The first claim states that as a result of his representations the Government has set aside $5,000.00 for the improvement of roads in this district, and goes on to indicate where this road work is to be done. As a matter of fact the constituency has not had less than $5,000.00 in any one year, and generally exceeds that amount considerably, and it is an annual expenditure common to all the constituencies throughout the province, which was voted by the members of the House for that specific purpose. Regarding the particular work authorized, Mr. Michener has been in correspondence with the Government for over a month concerning work to be done. It is said that previous to the last election miles of corduroy were laid which have never yet been covered. Some have floated away with the water; the others have been subject to fire. Mr. Michener has been urging strongly upon the Government the necessity of covering the ducry, which was placed before the last election, and has secured the promise of the Department to take care of the worst places in the district, parts of the road, but that no large expenditures can be made on account of the lack of money.

2. The Government has definitely decided, he says, to build the Clearwater bridge. This was promised to Mr. Michener last fall during the session, when a petition was presented to Mr. Mitchell, the Minister of Public Works, and Mr. Mitchell personally promised Mr. Michener to build the bridge as soon as possible. Some time ago Hon. Chas. Stewart, now Minister of Public Works, wrote Mr. Michener in reply to correspondence regarding this bridge, promising to build it at an early date. The following is a copy of the letter written during the month of March: Edmonton, Alta., March 31, 1914. Dear Sir,—Your favor of the 28th instant to hand was respectfully acknowledged. We have decided to place a bridge there, which we will have to remove from a point at which we have extra heavy traffic, and at which we have to place heavy construction, so that it will be some time late in the season before we get the bridge completed at Rocky Mountain House, but we have decided to have this matter attended to this year.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) CHAS. STEWART,
Minister of Public Works.
To E. Michener, Esq., M.P.P.

Copies of this letter have been sent to the people at Rocky Mountain House by Mr. Michener. 3. The third expenditure mentioned is that of $3,000.00 appropriated for the proposed overhead crossing at the south part of the city over the C.P.R. track. This matter was taken up with the Government last summer, and was promised, but apparently on account of lack of funds it was left over until this year, so that Mr. Welliver could hardly take all the credit for this, having only gone up last week.

4. The fourth expenditure he mentions is that of road improvement on the Edmonton trail to Blackfalds as a part of the general scheme to improve the Edmonton trail from Edmonton to Calgary. This policy was adopted two years ago by the Government, and the appropriation was made by the members of the House two sessions ago for this work. The work was started from the north and south, and this year they are to complete the part which runs through the Red Deer riding. Again Mr. Welliver can hardly claim credit for having secured this for Red Deer.

5. The fifth matter was that of the Court House site. This question is the only one which has not been finally settled by Mr. Welliver as a result of his trip to Edmonton, but we may inform Mr. Welliver that this matter has been discussed by the member for the Government, and he has every reason to believe that it will receive the favorable consideration of the Government, and that the construction of a Land Titles Office and Court House as soon as funds are available for this purpose.

We may state that our member, Mr. Michener, does not make a public announcement every time he visits Edmonton, but he has made several special trips to Edmonton, as well as a large number of correspondence with regard to the different matters referred to, as well as other matters of interest to the district.

Canadian Club Luncheon

Dr. Robertson Speaks.

The members of the Red Deer Canadian Club sat down yesterday in the hall of the Presbyterian Church to a luncheon prepared by the ladies of the church, and afterwards listened to one of the best addresses ever delivered in Red Deer. The guest of the day was Dr. Jas. W. Robertson, Chairman of the Dominion Commission on Technical Education.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, G. W. Gueene, President of the Club, called upon the Secretary to read the correspondence.

A letter was read from Dr. John Collison, now in England, congratulating the members on their auspicious start and wishing them every success.

Names for applicants for membership was also read out, and on a motion from Rev. W. G. Brown were referred to the executive. Geo. W. Gueene said it was a pleasure to preside at such a meeting. Everybody had enjoyed the luncheon, which was a credit to the ladies who had provided it, he was sure. There was a great treat in store for them in listening to Dr. Robertson's address. He would therefore waste no time but introduce the guest to them.

Dr. Robertson, on rising, said he was glad to come to Red Deer again to meet old friends, and perhaps make new ones, which was always worth a journey. He was reminded of the growth of the west as he went from place to place; of its great achievements, and of its great difficulties.

In Denmark, where the education of the young was so different, you would not see a farm without a well kept lawn. If we wanted lessons we had to look into the practice of the people. What people ever came to any greatness in character or achievement except those who were welded together with poverty and danger. Most of the poverty was caused by our neglect in training the young people. They were turned out of the schools unit and untrained, and we should make this a new earth when every boy and girl shall be trained for his or her position in life. There was no reason why we should not have a common purpose in training the young people to become the greatest race on earth. This country has neglected its training, while other countries have gone ahead. Our education is in the hands of inexperienced teachers. What could girls of nineteen years of age know of experience except that gained from books. Germany had 55,000 trained men of experience, and so many of them were held higher than doctors and lawyers, and deservedly so, for were they not the people who built up the character of the young, and could a man render greater service? The nation rewarded these men for their services, they were provided with residences and their families were looked after at the expense of the state.

Our schools are sacred to education. That is limited to what we learn from books, but it was only a partial education. He believed in ten years from now children would go to school at the age of seven years able to read, write and figure just as well as they could talk. The illiterates in Canada were fifteen per cent. to one-half per cent. in Denmark.

The doctor illustrated very ably the system now in operation in Germany and Denmark, and some of the schools in England and Scotland, where the people have just woken up to the fact that there was too much book learning and not enough technical training. In some of the public schools in Scotland the boys were being taught, and these were followed up with continuation schools, so that when the boy left school he was ready for the trade he was most fitted for. The same training for the boys and girls would have to be carried out here, and specially trained men were needed for the rural districts, who would be not only of value to the children, but to the farmer as well. He illustrated what could be done by co-operation, and pointed out that it was not beyond our power to raise the necessary money in taxes to do this work for the sake of the young people. He did not think the people here were wiser on this subject, but simply apathetic.

We have no space to give Dr. Robertson's address in full, but we will like to say that those who have not the privilege of hearing him missed far more than they can ever realize. He thought that with proper systematic education of the hands as well as the brain, we could do the same as Denmark who, but a few years ago, was about the poorest of the European countries, but was

Almost Fatal Accident on C.P.R. at Blackfalds

An accident or attempt at suicide occurred at Blackfalds on Friday last, when a man by the name of Marshall Jackson was struck by the south-bound passenger and badly knocked about, getting his collar bone and skull ribs broken, and internal injuries, from which he was not expected to recover, but up to the time of going to press he had slightly improved and regained consciousness. From what can be gathered from the man he was out of work and making his way south along the C.P.R. tracks, having been previously with some relatives home-boarding near Lignite.

The engineer of the passenger No. 324, saw the man on the track ahead of him and rang the warning bell, also blowing the whistle, and he was satisfied that the man heard it because he stepped from between the rails and ran the warning bell close to him he appeared to throw his bundle one way and jump the other way in front of the engine, and it was then that he was struck, him, causing the injuries. The man was brought to Red Deer and attended to at the hospital by Drs. Parsons and McKensie.

Entertainment at the Parish Hall

An amusing entertainment is to take place at the Parish Hall on Thursday, April 16th, when some of the members of the Anglican Young People's Association are acting a piece in three acts, entitled "Arabian Nights." The cast includes some with whom Red Deer audiences are already familiar, whilst others, who are excellent performers, but have never before acted in this city, will take part and will assist in making the piece a success. The members of the cast have for some weeks been at work carefully rehearsing the play, and they have shown such good form that there is no doubt in the minds of those who know but that a splendid performance will be staged which will delight those who attend on the 16th inst.

The Rev. Mr. Keith, R. L. Gaetz and L. Jamieson replied.

ULSTER QUESTION NEARER SETTLEMENT

"Jim" Larkin, of Fiery Cross Fame, to Run Against Asquith

London, Wednesday, April 1.—Calm followed the tumultuous passions of the last few days' debate in the House of Commons, and the discussion of Home Rule was renewed yesterday. A moderate speech by Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary and acting Government leader in the House during the absence of Premier Asquith, and another along the same lines by Arthur Ponsonby, Liberal member for Stirlingshire, had a markedly tranquillizing effect. The talk in the lobbies of the House last night was that a settlement of the Ulster question by consent was appreciably nearer, but such talk has been heard before. The debate will be continued today, and if, as is asserted, Mr. Lloyd George is present, yesterday's quietude may not last. The division on the second reading of the bill has been fixed for April 6th.

The Unionists have not yet decided whether they will name a candidate to oppose Premier Asquith in the election at East Fife. The local Unionist Council will meet on Thursday and decide whether to nominate Col. Spott, who has opposed Mr. Asquith on several previous occasions, will again be a candidate if it should be decided to make a fight.

Renovation of Oddfellows Hall

The renovating of the Oddfellows' Hall is now completed, and has a very pleasing effect. The accommodation is much better than previous, and when the additional rooms, now occupied by Mr. Fleming, are available for banqueting purposes, the Oddfellows consider they have secured as good rooms as any in the city, and they feel that Mr. Michener has treated them in a very liberal manner in alterations, etc.

The ceiling has been painted a light cream, and the walls half way down are terra cotta color, the balance of the walls to the floor being burlap 56 inches deep. New blinds have been fitted, being of green color to the window and cream inside.

CANADIAN LOAN IS POPULAR IN LONDON

Liberal Press Will Have To Crawl Now

The Liberal chickens come home to roost in quick order. It has been freely stated in the Laurier press of late that the Canadian Government was making ducks and drakes of the London market by borrowing. This statement has been made on behalf of a party whose ignorance of finance has become a byword in the world's markets. It has been made in cool defiance or ignorance of the fact that the present Government has borrowed money to meet the heavy obligations recklessly and needlessly incurred by the Laurier ministry. The Grit press has chortled gleefully over the alleged failure of Canadian financiers in London. This glo, besides being in the last degree unpatriotic, has been without any real foundation. It has been based upon a lack of appreciation of the fact that there is now at the head of Canada's finances a minister who understands his business, who understands the conditions of the world's money markets as his predecessor never understood them.

GIVEN THE LIE. Here is a London despatch under date of March 13, which tells the story. The charge has been made that the last Dominion loan has failed because the public had, at the outset, left eighty-seven per cent with the underwriters. The despatch says:

"The Canadian Government scrupulously maintained its strength yesterday. In the afternoon the price sprang to 13-16 premium for special settlement, while, for cash, holders were able to obtain at 12-16 premium. The underwriters who were left with 87 per cent. are now being congratulated instead of consoled, while some of them are now declining to sell on the ground that the price will certainly be raised to 100, that is to say, the previous issue price having been 99."

Lecture By Col. Cruickshanks

Last Thursday evening the D.O.C. M.D. 13, gave a lecture at the school on the army manoeuvres he had witnessed last year in England, France and Switzerland. The Dominion Government decided to send some officers from Canada to study army conditions in Europe, and Col.

Cruickshanks was one of those chosen. About twenty-two in all went over.

Capt. Russell, the officer commanding the provisional school at Red Deer, was the cavalry officer chosen to go to England for the Army manoeuvres last year. Col. Cruickshanks' lecture was interesting and instructive to both soldiers and civilians. He told us how in Switzerland, where the population is about one-half that of Canada, they maintain a standing army of 200,000 men, the pay ranging from ten to seventeen shillings a day for the men. Every citizen is obliged to take his term of soldiering. He praised the wonderful training of the French cavalry, and compared the country the French army has for manoeuvring very favorably to the enclosed country in England. In France their ground is one large plain, unfenced, and with splendid roads, in fact, artillery can be taken practically anywhere, even off the roads. In the narrowness of the roads, and the fenced condition of the country making it difficult to get troops about. He considered the English artillery superior to any he saw elsewhere. Mr. E. Michener presided, and the citizens of Red Deer were conspicuous by their absence, owing no doubt to a misunderstanding, some thinking the lecture was for the militia alone. The provisional school for cavalry was there of course, and after the lecture the officers were presented to the D. O. C. by Capt. Russell.

Red Deer City Football League Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Red Deer City Football League was held at the fire hall on Friday night last, April 3rd. It was probably the largest attended annual meeting in the history of the League, which would be very encouraging to lovers of the game. President H. J. Snell was in the chair, and the meeting transacted a lot of business without a hitch. Matters of vital interest to the game were freely discussed, and although, as was to be expected, there were many differences of opinion on some matters a conciliatory spirit prevailed the meeting throughout.

Among the important motions placed on the books were the following, in substance:

That the services of all players in the League shall be at the call of the League Executive.

That the Executive consist of President, Vice-President, three men having no connection with any team, and one representative from each Club who must be a non-player. The selection committee to be the three neutral men.

The question of instructing the delegate for the provincial meeting, regarding the matter of joining the Dominion Association, was discussed, and after Chief Meeres had addressed the meeting on the question, in brief, a motion was passed that we join the Dominion organization.

The Executive were also instructed to have rules drawn up and printed, including the laws of the game. Votes of thanks were passed the retiring officers, Fire Brigade for the use of the hall, and James Mann for his services as auditor.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. Presidents—E. Michener, M.P., and R. B. Welliver.
Hon. Vice-President—T. A. Gatz.
President—W. H. Hadley.
Vice-President—Rube Gee.
Secretary—Treasurer—McKay.
Manager—F. Angwell.
Executive—R. Griffin, J. Baird, H. Snell, and one representative from each team.

Winnipeg, March 28.—Three years and two years in the penitentiary were the respective sentences given by Justice Curran, this morning, to Percy Hagel and John Westlake, found guilty by a jury of assisting in the escape from custody of John Krafchenko, now standing trial at Morden on a murder charge. The application of defence counsel for a reserve case was refused, but an appeal will be taken despite this.

Life has become highly specialized. There is little room now-a-days for the Jack of all trades. The man who claims he can do a little of everything is an object of suspicion. So in the business of prize-winning those who wish to succeed must specialize. Association football in England and baseball in America have been turned into commercial enterprises. A number of athletes paid to make a special study of these games. They direct their whole time to the tasks. A team that wins many games is a valuable property. For a certain number of dollars a player will keep himself in training and play a fixed number of games. He plays for his living, not for amusement. This is not intended as a slight on the player. He earns his money in a lawful, manly way, and he provides entertainment for a large number of his fellow creatures. But I am not sure that he can be said to be engaged in sport.

When the Duke of Westminster brought a polo team to the United States, his associates were men who have many interests in life. Polo for them was a healthful recreation. They were opposed to men who had made a special study of the game and had worked together for this contest. So naturally the English team was defeated. But the members of it got what they wanted: a really good game of polo. I have no lack of respect for the men who make a business of winning prizes, but my admiration is reserved for those who, while playing to win, regard the game as more important than the prize, and who do not make a studied business of it.

I have noticed in football league matches in England that the referee's whistle is constantly sounding for fouls. I have seen a player save a goal by a foul, and he was cheered by several thousand onlookers for his smartness. Of course the other side got a free kick, but it failed to score. Now I do not wish to suggest that this sort of thing is the general practice. But there can be no doubt that when a team is trained for months, and the minds of the men are centred on the one idea of winning games, the prize becomes more important than the game. Then those who play can no longer be regarded as devotees of sport.

In a boys' school the sporting interest is seen at its best. Games are played on half-holidays without thought of prizes or of glory. The rules of the game, the glorious intoxication of vicious exercise in the open air, the acquisition and display of skill; these are the dominant notes. And the defeated side goes indoors to tea with spirits as high as those of the victors. When the annual races are to be run, all the boys go into training. But one does not see a particular boy training exclusively for the half-mile or for the 100 yards because he thinks that his best chance of winning a prize is to prepare himself for a particular race. Healthy boys enter for as many races as possible. They do it for the fun and excitement. All of them run to win, but you seldom see a clouded face at the end of the day's sport. If a boy trained exclusively for a particular race and made it his business to win that prize, I think he would not be very popular with his school mates. At many schools there is an unwritten law that a boy shall not accept more than two prizes at a single race meeting.

This seems to me the real sport: To play for the sake of the game, to hit one's strength or skill or best against that of another, to win if this can be done fairly, but to lose rather than to take an unfair advantage. It is pleasant to have a memento of victory. But no amount of prizes can give as much satisfaction as the recollection of a great game fairly played.

HOMESTEAD ACT CHANGES, BENEFIT TO NEW SETTLERS

Far-reaching Amendments to Improve Position of Men on The Land

Ottawa, Ont., March 31.—Hon. Dr. Roche Monday announced a number of important changes in the homestead and pre-emption acts. These changes have been under consideration for some time and have for their object the improvement of the position of the new settlers and the encouragement of the cattle industry.

The amendments to the Dominion Lands act are of far-reaching importance to the western homesteader. One clause reduces the time for securing patents on pre-emptions from six to three years and abolishes the interest charges of five per cent. However, a homesteader has the option of paying for his pre-emption in six years and in that case is charged interest during the last three years.

STOCK TO QUALIFY.
Another important amendment allows homesteaders on land which is not of the highest grade to qualify for pre-emption by keeping stock instead of breaking land to a certain amount as at present. The first year there must be five head of cattle, in the second year six, in the third sixteen. On pre-emption land, the homesteader can also secure his patent by keeping stock in lieu of cultivation, except that, by the third year, he must have twenty-four head of stock instead of sixteen. The principal object of this amendment is to encourage mixed farming and cattle raising. There are a number of other amendments, of which the most important withdraws from entry or sale lands adjacent to water powder.

There are also a number of changes in the irrigation act, but they are largely technical, such as arranging for order of precedence for disposal of water for municipal and other purposes.

The amendments to the forest reserve act provide for the addition of certain areas to the present forest reserve, chiefly in Alberta and Saskatchewan. A year ago these areas were placed under the control of the federal government and they are now permanently a part of the forest reserve.

THE SPIRIT OF SPORT

By V. B.

For some years the English newspapers have been sounding the knell of the country's supremacy in sport. England has not been distinguishing itself at the Olympic games. It has failed to capture the great yacht racing cup from America. It is beaten at cricket and football, and in tennis. A crack polo team was defeated by the United States team. County cricket does not pay. There is an endless lament and a furor of criticism. I have little sympathy with all this croaking. The playing of games ceases to be sport when the winning of prizes becomes the dominant ambition.

Life has become highly specialized. There is little room now-a-days for the Jack of all trades. The man who claims he can do a little of everything is an object of suspicion. So in the business of prize-winning those who wish to succeed must specialize. Association football in England and baseball in America have been turned into commercial enterprises. If a boy trained exclusively for a particular race and made it his business to win that prize, I think he would not be very popular with his school mates. At many schools there is an unwritten law that a boy shall not accept more than two prizes at a single race meeting.

This seems to me the real sport: To play for the sake of the game, to hit one's strength or skill or best against that of another, to win if this can be done fairly, but to lose rather than to take an unfair advantage. It is pleasant to have a memento of victory. But no amount of prizes can give as much satisfaction as the recollection of a great game fairly played.

Life has become highly specialized. There is little room now-a-days for the Jack of all trades. The man who claims he can do a little of everything is an object of suspicion. So in the business of prize-winning those who wish to succeed must specialize. Association football in England and baseball in America have been turned into commercial enterprises. A number of athletes paid to make a special study of these games. They direct their whole time to the tasks. A team that wins many games is a valuable property. For a certain number of dollars a player will keep himself in training and play a fixed number of games. He plays for his living, not for amusement. This is not intended as a slight on the player. He earns his money in a lawful, manly way, and he provides entertainment for a large number of his fellow creatures. But I am not sure that he can be said to be engaged in sport.

When the Duke of Westminster brought a polo team to the United States, his associates were men who have many interests in life. Polo for them was a healthful recreation. They were opposed to men who had made a special study of the game and had worked together for this contest. So naturally the English team was defeated. But the members of it got what they wanted: a really good game of polo. I have no lack of respect for the men who make a business of winning prizes, but my admiration is reserved for those who, while playing to win, regard the game as more important than the prize, and who do not make a studied business of it.

I have noticed in football league matches in England that the referee's whistle is constantly sounding for fouls. I have seen a player save a goal by a foul, and he was cheered by several thousand onlookers for his smartness. Of course the other side got a free kick, but it failed to score. Now I do not wish to suggest that this sort of thing is the general practice. But there can be no doubt that when a team is trained for months, and the minds of the men are centred on the one idea of winning games, the prize becomes more important than the game. Then those who play can no longer be regarded as devotees of sport.

In a boys' school the sporting interest is seen at its best. Games are played on half-holidays without thought of prizes or of glory. The rules of the game, the glorious intoxication of vicious exercise in the open air, the acquisition and display of skill; these are the dominant notes. And the defeated side goes indoors to tea with spirits as high as those of the victors. When the annual races are to be run, all the boys go into training. But one does not see a particular boy training exclusively for the half-mile or for the 100 yards because he thinks that his best chance of winning a prize is to prepare himself for a particular race. Healthy boys enter for as many races as possible. They do it for the fun and excitement. All of them run to win, but you seldom see a clouded face at the end of the day's sport. If a boy trained exclusively for a particular race and made it his business to win that prize, I think he would not be very popular with his school mates. At many schools there is an unwritten law that a boy shall not accept more than two prizes at a single race meeting.

This seems to me the real sport: To play for the sake of the game, to hit one's strength or skill or best against that of another, to win if this can be done fairly, but to lose rather than to take an unfair advantage. It is pleasant to have a memento of victory. But no amount of prizes can give as much satisfaction as the recollection of a great game

CANNOT BE COERCED.

It is claimed by Liberals that the fight for Home Rule is now a fight of the aristocracy against the people. Such a contention is absurd. It is the loyal, hard-working, laboring man of Ulster who is doing most of the kicking. All he wants is to be left as he is. He refuses to be placed under the government of people who are disloyal to the Crown. He has not forgotten the time when these same people cheered at British defeats in the Boer war. He doesn't want anything to do with people who sneer at Britannia's victories and glory in her defeats. We are also told that the Irish people should be allowed to settle their own disputes and differences without interference from the English voters. That is, English ballots have no right to settle this grave question, but yet they want it settled by English bullets. The Government has only to make a move towards coercion, when hidden batteries are uncovered that are sufficient to defeat their plans, and the resources of Ulster are not yet exhausted. If the British government want to settle the question, they have but to submit to a vote of the people, and Ulster will abide by the decision.

LIBERAL RECKLESSNESS.

A Liberal paper said a few days ago that there is nothing sensational in the idea of wasting forty million dollars of public money. That kind of thing is too common in Canada, and in a business such as was involved in the National Transcontinental a grant of a few millions is only to be expected.

What we wish our readers to note is the refreshing frankness of this statement.

What we wish to emphasize more particularly is that it was made "a common occurrence" under Liberal rule.

The ordinary lay mind can hardly grasp the amount involved in this gigantic steal. It would, if distributed in Alberta, amount to one hundred dollars to every man, woman and child in the province. It would mean two dollars a day for a whole year to every working man in the province who has a family of five to support.

And this is the kind of thing this Liberal paper says is a common occurrence.

The desperate fight put up by the Liberal leaders during the last session of Parliament is now explained. They knew exposure of their evil deeds was coming, and they reasoned if the Conservative government could be forced to the country the Liberals might be returned to power and thus escape exposure.

They failed. The exposures have come on time. The Liberal party is a discredited party. The people realize they were not thrown out of office a minute too soon, and it will be a good many years before they again take up the reins of government in Canada.

KEEPING UP THE JOKE.

That strong Independent Liberal paper, the Winnipeg Tribune, says: It is marvellous how completely partisan organs rely upon the credulity of the public. One would think, in view of the history of the "Liberal" party on the agricultural implement duties, that no member of the party—to say nothing of an organ with pretensions to intelligence—would be found risking his face in trying to carry on the tragic joke which has been perpetrated on the people of the west by the Liberal party with regard to the agricultural implement duties. This is the party, the principal plank of whose platform was "free trade as they have it in England," and the chicanery of "every vestige of protection from the tariff," and for twenty years its leader stalked about the country preaching "free trade as they have it in England," and pledging the party to the bill in the west, that the moment they got into office, agricultural implements would be placed upon the free list. For many years the leaders had gone about denouncing the Tory administration because of its protective policy and especially because of the high duties on agricultural implements. In 1894 the Conservatives reduced the duties on agricultural implements from 35 per cent. to 20 per cent. This, however, did not satisfy the Liberals who demanded that the duties should be wiped out altogether, and on this platform the party attained office in 1896.

Wore the duties wiped out?

Not at all. There was a trifling reduction of 1 per cent. or 2 per cent. on a few articles, but no advantage that might be reaped by the farmers from this was taken away by the imposition of an arbitrary valuation on the implements, which kept the price on the implements, so far as the farmer was concerned, quite as high as before. So much for the anti-office pledges of the Liberals, and so much for their performance when they had the opportunity.

Since Mr. Borden has attained power the duties have been reduced to some extent on implements, and it has been an open secret for a considerable time that it was the intention of the Conservative administration to reduce the duties at the present session to 10 per cent. The Liberal manipulators, hearing of this, thought, no doubt, to spike the guns of the government and take away the natural kudos that would flow to it from the proposed reduction, and so a resolution was recently introduced in Parliament by some Liberals calling for free agricultural implements. In view of the history of the party, everybody with any gumption knew that this was merely a piece of grand-stand play for the purpose of trying to forestall the action of the Conservatives. The Conservatives very naturally and very properly voted the resolution down, stating that their policy would be announced when the budget speech was delivered. It is still believed to be the intention of the government to reduce the duties to 10 per cent. on the average. If they do this they will have conferred a special benefit upon the farmers.

The amusing point about the free trade and protective proclivities of the two parties is that while the Liberals professed in opposition to be in favor of free trade, in office they practiced quite as vicious a brand of protection as the Tories ever carried on. On the other hand the Tories have always professed to be protectionists in principle, but their conduct, especially on the agricultural implement duties, demonstrates them to be the real party of reform and the party of low tariff.

THE CANADIAN NORTHERN.

The Wall Street Journal has been giving some attention to the Canadian Northern Railway, and after a few observations upon what has been done on the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the third transcontinental line, it gives the following very interesting and important facts relating to the last mentioned road:

This Canadian Northern line across the Rocky Mountains through the Yellow Head Pass will be the lowest grade line on the American continent, and with its low grade American transcontinental lines may have to reckon in the future.

The Union Pacific crossed the Rocky Mountains at a height of 8,000 feet, with a grade of 24 per cent., or 128 feet, to a mile. The Northern Pacific followed with the same grades, but crossed the mountains at a height of 7,000 feet. The Great Northern followed the same grades, and crossed at a height of 6,000 feet. The St. Paul Extension crosses at 7,000 feet, and has a maximum grade of about 90 feet to the mile.

But the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern cross the Rockies at a height of 3,700 feet, and both have a maximum grade of four-tenths of one per cent., or a rise of only 21 feet to the mile. The American roads cross three mountain ranges, while these two Canadian lines cross only one.

The Canadian Pacific, lying to the south of the other two Canadian lines, has to cross two mountain ranges. But it likewise has two lines across the Rockies. The main line uses the maximum grade of 24 per cent., and crosses the Rockies at 5,000 feet altitude.

One locomotive and one train car on the Canadian Northern will care for a load of 2,500 tons from Seattle and Vancouver to the Great Lakes. On the American lines a single crew and engine could only carry 500 tons, except by additional power, over the three mountain ranges.

Grain on the Canadian Northern Railroad will run down the west slope of the Rocky Mountains 600 miles to the Pacific Ocean without an adverse grade.

What Canada is, and is to be, in the world's granaries, is well indicated by the fact that on this line

U.F.A. Edwell Local Union No. 52

This Local Union held a meeting on Thursday last in the schoolhouse, which was well attended, and decidedly enthusiastic. After disposing of the minutes of the last meeting, the routine business was attended to and settled. The Secretary read a letter from the Hillsdown Union agreeing to co-operate with us in the purchasing of supplies in quantities, and the Secretary stated he had written this Local Union quoting prices received and asking for quantities required by them, so that we could get busy. The following were proposed for membership and accepted subject to payment of dues: H. Partington, of Hill End, and R. Wells, also of Hill End, both from the W. Flaxley. It was hoped that each member would do his utmost to bring in at least one new member this year and make our membership what it should be. The Secretary read letters from Mr. Borden and Dr. M. Clark, M.P., in reference to the copy resolution of protest sent by this Union against the sum of $25,000,000 being granted to Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann, the former stating that no such proposition had been put to the Government, and the letter was ordered to be filed.

P. Graham stated that he had a seed drill for sale and also a grade bull rising two. J. Comer stated he had a purchased bull for sale. A member also required for White Orpington settings, any one having these please communicate with the Secretary.

After all business had been disposed of, the meeting opened up the following subject for discussion, "Does it pay to buy feed to raise hogs," and a very interesting discussion ensued, bringing out many points in the feeding of hogs which was educational to say the least, and it was to be regretted that many members were absent who should have been there. The growing cultivation of cattle and horses, and of the hog feed question and a most instructive discussion ensued. In the end it was agreed unanimously that it did pay to buy feed to raise hogs, and that the feed should be raised locally, and the feed should be raised locally, and the feed should be raised locally.

ORANGEMEN'S AT HOME AND CONCERT

There was quite a large attendance of members and visitors to the At Home and concert given by the Red Deer Lodge, Star of the North, and Blackfalds Lodge No. 1225. The occasion can certainly be set down as the most successful of its kind held in recent years. The chair was taken by Past Grand Master W. Piper. The concert was put on by the Blackfalds Lodge, and consisted of about twenty items, all of which were well rendered and most enjoyable, showing Blackfalds to have quite a number of artists of first class ability.

The supper provided by the Red Deer Lodge was a very enjoyable one, and great credit is coming to those who were responsible for the tables were laid out.

Addresses were given by W. Piper and Rev. W. G. Brown, of Red Deer, Mr. Wren, Olds, and Mr. Matthias, Mr. Davies and Mr. Hand, of Blackfalds.

The following programme was carried out: Piano solo, Mrs. Trout and Mrs. Magee; song, Mrs. Davies; recitation, Rev. Davies; song, C. Miller; musical selection, orchestra; mixed quartette, "The Auctioneer"; musical selection, Mr. Matthias; recitation, Mrs. Davies; quartette, male voices; song, Mrs. Hand; song, Mr. Dunham; piano solo, Rev. Davies; selection, orchestra; Mrs. Magee and Mrs. Trout; duet, Rev. and Mrs. Davies; song, Mr. Matthias; mixed quartette, "The Wrong Man"; quartette, male voices. Blackfalds also supplied the orchestra.

RANCHING REGULATIONS

Hon. Dr. Roche Revises Old Methods.
GREAT WESTERN INDUSTRY TO BE ENCOURAGED

For years the great ranching industry of the West has been greatly handicapped by obsolete regulations. This great industry was being wiped out, and the West is suffering in consequence of the decreased production of horses, cattle and sheep. When the Government came into power a commission was appointed to investigate the industry. A series of tenures of leases was one of the greatest drawbacks to the development of the stock industry. After carefully revising the recommendations of the Commission, and consulting with the best authorities on this subject, Hon. Dr. Roche, Minister of Interior, drafted new regulations.

HALF SECTION THE MAXIMUM.

In future the maximum areas granted under lease to any one person will be a half section. No particular part of the province is set aside for ranching, but the regulations apply to the whole of the three. Applications for grazing leases on any land will only be granted after inspection to determine whether the land in question is grazing or agricultural land. When the inspectors believe that the land will not carry that amount of stock they will fix the number they should be granted on the land. A thirty-three per cent. of the required stock must be placed the first year on each leased area granted. At least twenty per cent. of the stock must always be breeding stock.

AN IMPETUS TO RANCHING.

It is believed that these new regulations will give an impetus to the ranching industry by giving a permanency of tenure to the leases. They will also greatly stimulate mixed farming by securing ample grazing land to the farmers for their stock.

It is expected that under these new provisions the West will again take its place as one of the great stock-raising countries of the world. The development of this industry will add to the prosperity and permanency of the Western settler. The farmer who wishes grazing privileges is protected, the agriculturist has still access to all arable land, and the rancher is given a permanency of tenure that will encourage him to develop his industry.

Lacombe

Lacombe, April 3.—The pastor of the Methodist church has organized a class for the Chinese in Lacombe, which is held on Saturdays. The members are Chinese, English, and religious subjects. Eight attended on the 29th. One speaks English and interprets for the others. Volunteer teachers are few at present, but are expected to respond better, the Rev. E. Scragg being determined to make the class a success.

John Ross, an old man who died in Edmonton recently, was one of the pioneers of the Lacombe district. His sons Harry and William were farming in the Clive district before they removed to Edmonton.

The following are the officers of the recreation re-organizing Lacombe baseball club: Hcn. President, John Fortune; president, Mr. Nickerson; 1st vice-president, Robert H. Inglis; sec-treas., William Heid; manager, A. S. Stewart. The club is going in for new uniforms.

The Lakeside Young People's Literary association held the last meeting of the season on the 25th. A social programme was given, to which contributions were made by Mrs. Davies of Blackfalds, P. R. Banks, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Crooker, parents of Mrs. S. Nicholson, celebrated their golden wedding recently. No presents were received, by request. Fifteen grand-children, out of twenty-two all living, were present.

Rev. Thomas Powell, of Edmonton, passed through on Friday from a visit to Clive, on his way south. Mr. and Mrs. Powell have another daughter, about a week old.

A baptismal service will be held at the Sunday morning service at the Methodist church on April 5. The pastor invited adults as well as infants to present themselves.

Mrs. Richard Shillito's brother, J. McCorkindale, died recently at Basano, after a short illness.

Mrs. H. C. Hall and baby son, and her mother, Mrs. Purvis, left on the 31st for their home in Edmonton.

Pine Lake

Pine Lake, March 28th, 1914. Quite cold enough for March, thank you. The thermometer registered a minimum of 39 degrees last Wednesday night.

Sam Horner is busy saving and cutting wood round the lake just now. He has quite a lot of work to do yet.

The road at the North End store is again going to be bad when the snow starts running. It is a good bit of road spoil by the meanderings of the creek and costs the ratepayers money every year. Would it not help if the creek was to be cut straight.

We have an observatory close to the Lake now, not an astronomical one. All criticisms receive special attention and are quickly speed. Strict attention to business, etc.

Members of the U.F.A., please do not forget the meeting on April 10th. Important business to be transacted re. a blacksmith. Please hand in orders for formalin at once as time is getting on.

Service held at Pine Lake Missions during April: April 5th—Hillsdown 11.30 a.m.; Delburne 3.30 p.m. April 10th—Pine Lake, 2.30 p.m. (Good Friday). April 12th—Edwell, 11.00 a.m. April 12th—Pine Lake, 3.00 p.m. (Easter Day). April 19th—11.30 a.m., Holy Communion. Cornwall Valley School, 3.30 p.m. April 26th—Pine Lake, 3.00 p.m. (Easter Day). April 26th—Pine Lake, 3.00 p.m. (Easter Day).

Mr. and Mrs. Ross, of the Sandy Cove Hotel, were in town this week. They took in with them Mrs. J. A. Simpson, who has been staying at the Lake with her daughter.

People are inquiring already from Calgary and other parts for rooms and boats at the hotel here. We would advise them to wait at least until the ice in the Lake goes out. Some people will soon be here for the fishing. Let us hope that they will obey the laws and be true sportsmen.

This is the sixth snowstorm this spring. Let everyone cheer up; according to the weather wise men there is only one more storm due before we really have spring.

There is much disappointment among the young bachelors here owing to the non-arrival of the schoolteacher for Glaplin school. But never say die, there is one coming soon to another school.

The bridge club had its final meeting for the season on April 2nd. Rumor has it that one of the ladies has the highest average for the season. The West side of the Lake beat the East side for the second time this year.

CHURCH NOTES.

A missionary box will be placed in the church near the door for coins of the realm. The contents will be given to foreign missions. It will remain there for two Sundays.

It is hoped that the appointment will be made up within the next two or three weeks.

Don't forget the services at Edwell and Pine Lake on Easter Day. Service at 3.00 p.m. at the latter place.

D. D. D. Opens New Era In Cure of Skin Disease

Mr. Corn's case of eczema was known to almost every hospital and physician of reputation throughout the city of Toronto. His letter is another interesting demonstration of what is being accomplished by the famous specific D.D.D. Prescription.

"I will consider it a favor if you will allow me to add my testimonial to the many hundreds you no doubt 'have in praise of the great cures effected by the D.D.D. Prescription. I was a sufferer for two years with eczema on the legs, and ankles. I tried three or four different doctors and none of them did me any good. I got tired of trying their remedies. I then went to a skin specialist, but he was no better than I. I secured a trial bottle of D.D.D. and it did me so much good that I sent for a dollar bottle, also a cake of soap. That is all I used, and I am perfectly well. You are at liberty to use my name, for I consider D.D.D. the best remedy in use." T. W. Corns, 21 Givens St., Toronto, Can.

Ask any druggist today for D.D.D. Prescription. Tie'll tell you it 'always the itch instantly—and soon there are signs of cure.

We have handled the remedy for years and regard it as the specific for skin troubles of all kinds. Come in or ask us about D.D.D. Soap, especially for tender skins.

We offer you the first full size bottle on the guarantee that unless it stops the itch at once, it costs you not a cent.
